5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

THE Boston Post says:

Postmaster-General Wamsmaker has sent to the largest post-offices in the country a series of questions which seem to indicate a desire to abolish movements of mails on Sundays. Not only do the questions asked fore-shadow such an intention, but they appear to be cunningly prepared so as to produce responses that will show that work on the mails on Sunday is unnecessary and uneconomical. Two of the five questions deal with the amount of stamps, etc., sold on Sunday, and the number of callers at the office on that day—questions that have no more to do with the value of business than the rapid transmission of mails than they have with the arrival or departure of steamers. The people, as a rule, do not purchase stamps on that day, and those who do need them know where they can be found. It would be anything but an improvement in the mail service to in any way curtail the facilities for handling the mails, although certain portions of the routine work are very properly dispensed with on Sunday.

If Postmaster-General Wamsmaker would give the postal service of Nevada a little attention he would earn the gratitude of a long suffering community, for never before in the history of the State have we had such poor mail service as we are now getting; the mails are carelessly handled and the post routes generally speaking are even worse than none at all.

THE great financial success of the sugar trust is certain to add an impetus to the trust movement. Last year the sugar trust earned about 83 per cent. on its consolidated capital of $45,000,000. It is now earning an equally large profit on its increased capital of $50,000,000. Its production is about 32,000 barrels per day, on which it realizes a profit of about $1.50 per barrel. At the rate of 300 working days this would yield a yearly profit of $14,400,000.

THE gold coinage of the German Empire has reached the enormous sum of 2,226,000,000 marks ($550,000,000). On January 1, 1889, Germany possessed gold coin equal to 47 marks per capita of population. The stock of gold coin in the United States is estimated at $800,000,000. We have about $400,000,000 in silver coins, comparatively little of which is in circulation. The silver coins of Germany are in very active circulation. They amount in value to about $180,000,000.

"OUIDA" writes: The German victories, the German armaments, the German tyrannies, are lying on the world like lead; and among the fatal injuries which German influence has wrought on modern life, its iron despotism, its sacrifice of the citizen to the soldier, is the worst.

EIGHTY-EIGHT thousand two hundred barrels of flour is the report of a recent one-week's work for the mills at Minneapolis. Is there any other place in the world where such a large production is realized?

PRESIDENT ROBERTS reports that the Pennsylvania railroad has nearly 90,000 men on the pay rolls. This does not include the thousands of workmen employed in forests, shops and mills.

English Races.
LONDON, June 19.—The Ascot Derby, for three-year-olds, a mile and a half, was won by Morglay, Miguel second and Evergreen third. The Fernhill stakes, five furlongs, was won by Amphion, Labbe Morin second and Paloma third. Seven starters.

The Royal Hunt Cup, one mile, was won by Whitelegs, Veracity second and Labbesse de Joursse third. Fifteen starters.

LONDON, June 19.—The Coronation stake, for three-year-old fillies, one mile, was won by Seclusion, Cherry Bounce second, Heliope third.

Clearing up the Wreckage.
JOHNSTOWN, June 19.—It continues raining. The work of clearing up progresses steadily.

Seven bodies have been recovered up to 1 o'clock—all women, but none recognizable. Governor Beaver and the Flood Commission arrived shortly before noon and made a tour of the devastated district. They have not held a formal conference yet.

Shot a Chinaman.
SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

Alaska Excursionists.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Ex-Senator T. C. Platt will start on his Alaska trip to-day. He and Mrs. Platt will leave at 6 p. m. for Detroit. There they will meet General Alger, family and friends and go with them to the Pacific coast. General Alger will be accompanied by Mrs. Alger, two unmarried daughters, Fay and Frances, the eldest son, Russell, and the wife of General O. E. Poe, formerly General Sherman's chief of engineers, but now in charge of the harbor at Tacoma. Colonel Geo. H. Hopkins, Chairman of the Michigan Republican Committee, and R. B. Hawley of Cleveland. General Alger's partner will go as far as San Francisco. President John M. Thurston of the Republican National League will join the party at Tacoma, but Mrs. Thurston will meet the car at Omaha. It is possible that Senator Jones of Nevada will go along.

Said to Have Confessed.

WINNIPEG, June 19.—Burke, the Irishman arrested here on suspicion of being one of Dr. Cronin's murderers, is reported to have made a clean breast of the whole affair to the Winnipeg Chief of Police. Burke has been extremely nervous since his capture, and is now broken down entirely. The Chief refuses to tell anything about the confession until he consults the Chicago detectives, now on their way here to take charge of the prisoner. It is known positively that Burke offered to return without being extradited, if allowed to turn State's evidence.

WINNIPEG, June 19.—It is reported that the story that Burke had confessed is a canard. Burke has made no statement except to deny all complicity in the Cronin murder. No one but his lawyer is allowed to see him.

Extending Their Limits.

PRITTSBURG, June 19.—The Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers convention to-day granted the application of the boat makers for admission to the organization. A general strike assessment measure was suggested by the American Federation of Trades Unions, whereby all the members of the federation are assessed in case of a strike in any of the trades unions. Adopted.

An amendment was also passed permitting the admission of a large number of men about the mill who heretofore could not join the organization. Everybody about the mills can now be freely admitted except common laborers. This latter question was left to the discretion of local lodges. This trenches on the field of the Knights of Labor.

Ashore Near Cape Henry.

NORFOLK, Va., June 19.—The U. S. ship Constellation, ashore near Cape Henry, is lying easy this morning, the wind having abated during the night to a calm. The wrecking steamer has a cable and anchor to the ship. The ship will probably be afloat to-day.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The following dispatch was received from Captain Harrington of the Constellation: "The Constellation went ashore yesterday inside Cape Henry light house, in a fog; afloat; injury not serious; must dock; proceed to navy yard to-day; all well."

Investment of English Capital.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Samuel Untermyer, agent for the English syndicate purchasing American breweries, said: "This syndicate, which, by the way, is not a syndicate, but merely a number of English capitalists, is going to invest in flour mills and rolling mills. We are already negotiating for the purchase of different mills, and propose to manufacture steel rails in this country. I am not at liberty now, however, to state where these manufacturing and mills are."

Asks to be Excused.

BOSTON, June 19.—Ex-President Cleveland has written a letter to the Massachusetts Reform Club asking to be excused from accepting an invitation to attend their banquet. He declares his devotion to the tariff reform, but says that having returned to private life, his attendance on such gatherings ought to be made as infrequent as possible.

Martin Burke Indicted.

CHICAGO, June 19.—An indictment was returned by the grand jury this morning against Martin Burke, alias Delaney, now under arrest at Winnipeg, on two charges, the first for the murder of Dr. Cronin, and the second for conspiracy in connection with T. O'Sullivan, Coughlin and Woodruff.

Chandler Elected.

CONCORD, June 19.—In joint convention of the Legislature to-day W. E. Chandler was elected United States Senator.

A Sensational Sermon.

CHICAGO, June 18.—A sensational sermon was preached here Sunday night by Rev. J. P. Burroughs, pastor of the Ida-street Methodist Church. In speaking of the Cronin murder, he said: "Here in America we seem to stand in a vortex of calamity. Floods in the East sweep thousands to their doom and fire in the far West wipes out fortunes in an hour. But when they dragged the mutilated body of Dr. Cronin from the catch-basin and dressed him for burial, that coffin spoke more eloquently, more sadly, than all the thousands dead in the hills of Pennsylvania. Let the statement of the coroner's jury who sat in judgment on the death of a citizen of America be written on your hearts. All these societies which have for their object purposes similar to that of the Clann-Gael are dangerous to our institutions. It has been stated in the public press that 75 per cent. of the police force of this city belong to the Clann-Gael. How does it come that 75 per cent. of the police force are Irishmen, anyway?"

[At these words a man well in front of the church clapped his hands, and instantly a wave of applause rolled over the congregation.]

The pastor stood, as if startled, a moment, and then continued: "I know I heard a policeman, wearing the badge of my country's authority, charged with the duty of my people's protection, I heard him say: 'Dr. Cronin was a British spy, and ought to have been hanged long ago.' I know where to find that policeman, and tomorrow I will report him to the Chief of Police."

Again applause interrupted the speaker. It was a hearty, long and loud demonstration. It is believed this is the first case on record where a Chicagoan's remarks were greeted with the clapping of hands and other demonstrations. The approval of the incident may be taken as indicative of the general feeling in the city.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

STEVENSVILLE, Ohio, June 19.—The second section of the west-bound mail on the Panhandle road jumped the track near here and went over an embankment. Ten persons are reported killed and injured.

PRITTSBURG, June 19.—The second section of the mail train, west bound, on the Panhandle road was wrecked this afternoon at Cumberland Junction two miles east of Steubenville. Two persons were killed outright, eight injured, four of them seriously. The names are: killed: J. H. Payne and E. R. Reinhart, Postal Clerks. Very severely injured, O. C. Burris, brakeman; McFarlin, postal clerk; W. S. Boulton and J. E. Mathews. Others injured, T. D. Armstrong, E. E. Benner, C. J. Menor and Frank Shook. How badly it is not known. The accident was caused by the third car from the engine jumping the track, followed by the two others all going over the embankment. The train consisted of the engine, express car, four postal cars, running 45 miles an hour. Besides the regular crew, there were 15 Postal Clerks on the train.

Verdict of Not Guilty.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
FRESNO, Cal., June 19.—The jury in the case of Herman Meyers, charged with the murder of Henry Bronaugh, a thirteen-year-old boy, on the 13th of February last, brought in a verdict of not guilty this afternoon.

The Bronaugh boy in company with three other boys, were caught stealing eggs in the yard of Dr. Prather near town. Meyers had been shooting birds with an old revolver loaded with bird shot, and seeing the boys, he fired toward them and wounded young Bronaugh who subsequently died.

The World's Sunday School Convention.

NEW YORK, June 19.—There sailed for Liverpool on board the Bothnia to-day 300 delegates to the world's Sunday School Convention, which meets in London on July 2d. They represent the Sunday schools of all the leading cities.

Damaging Hail in Germany.

BERLIN, June 19.—Torrential rains, accompanied by thunder and hail, have swept over Hesse, South Westphalia, Nassau and Thuringen. The storm extended east to Saxony and south to Bavaria. Serious damage was done to the crops. Several persons and a large number of cattle perished.

Want Compensation.

PARIS, June 19.—Germany has made a demand upon France for compensation for the arrest of an alleged spy named Weimer, near Belfort, on Whit Sunday. The officials declare the documents found on Weimer, justify his arrest.

A Slow Race.

QUEENSTOWN, June 19.—The yacht race was not finished until nearly five o'clock this morning. The Vreda reached Club Quay at 4:59; the Yarana and Valkyrie became becalmed and anchored a quarter of a mile from the quay.

Will Be Released.

TORONTO, Ont., June 19.—The full particulars of the crime with which Samuel Jackson is charged not having been sent from Springfield, Montana, where the offense was committed, Jackson will be released.

A Good Month's Work.

LYONS, Nebraska, claims the champion wolf-hunter in the person of L. D. Higley, who in the past month has killed sixty-six of the "varmints." The bounty on their scalps will net the hunter $246.

Though Shaken Like a Leaf.

By the most trivial causes, weak nerves are easily susceptible of invigoration, a term which also imports, in this instance, quietude. The nervous have but to use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters systematically to overcome that super-sensitiveness of the human sensorium which is subservient of all bodily comforts and mental tranquility, and which reacts most hurtfully upon the system. The difficulty underlying this, as well as many other ailments, is imperfect assimilation, no less than incomplete digestion of the food. In the discharge of both the digestive and assimilative functions, the Bitters are the most potent, the most reliable auxiliary. As the body regains vigor and regularity by its aid, the brain and nervous system are also benefited. Persons subject to the influence of malaria, dyspeptic and rheumatic invalids, and persons whose kidneys are inactive, should also use the Bitters.

SAVED BY A DREAM.

A Story of the War of the Rebellion.

Halls Journal of Health contains the following:
A man of the name of Joe Williams had told a dream to his fellow-soldiers, some of whom related it to me months previous to the occurrence which I relate. He dreamed that he crossed a river, marched over a mountain and camped near a church located in a wood, near where a terrible battle ensued, and in a charge just as he was crossing a ravine he was shot in the heart. On the ever memorable 7th of December 1861 (battle of Prairie Grove, Northern Arkansas), as we moved at a double-quick to take our place in line of battle, then already hotly engaged, we passed a church, a small frame building. I was riding on the flank of the command, opposite to Williams, as we came in view of the house. "That is the church I saw in my dream," he said. I made no reply, and never thought of the matter until evening. We had broken the enemy's lines and were in full pursuit, when we came to a dry ravine in the wood, and Williams said: "Just on the other side of this ravine I was shot in my dream, and I will put my hat under my shirt. Suiting the action to the word he doubled up his hat as he ran along and crammed it into his bosom. Scarcely had he adjusted it when a rifle ball knocked him out of line. Jumping up quickly he pulled out his hat, waved it over his head, shouting: "I'm all right." The ball raised a black spot about the size of a man's hand just over the heart and dropped into his shoe.

The immediate symptoms of Dyspepsia or Indigestion, are a distressing sense of weight, oppression and fulness in the stomach, heartburn, loss of appetite, foul breath, belching, flatulency, nausea, pains in the stomach, Dr. HENLEY'S Dandelion Tonic promotes healthy digestion and removes all unhealthy symptoms. EXPERIMENT STATION.

The Line of Work They are Taking Up.

The director of the Experiment Station of the University of Nevada, has issued the following circular which explains itself:

The State Legislature in accepting the National Appropriation for an Agricultural Experiment Station, located at the Station at the Nevada State University, at Reno. The Station is now being thoroughly equipped and is preparing to make a study of some of the many perplexing questions constantly presenting themselves to the farmers, gardeners and herdsmen of Nevada. These investigations will be pursued with a view to the solution of some of the problems, and with a view to the publication of the results, in the hope that the efforts put forth here may be of service in the development of the agricultural resources of our State and the advancement of the agricultural interests.

It is proposed to undertake investigations respecting: (1) The growth of the various farm crops; (2) The growth, treatment and food value of various forage plants and their adaptability to our soil and climate; (3) The best varieties and most satisfactory method of growing garden vegetables; (4) The adaptability and treatment of large and small fruits; (5) The structure, nature and distribution of native and introduced plants; (6) The purity and vitality of seeds; (7) The chemical composition of feeding stuffs, soils, fertilizers and potash waters; (8) The insects of the State and the use of insecticides and insecticide apparatus; (9) The feeding of beef cattle and sheep; (10) Forest trees and their care; (11) The diseases of plants and of animals; (12) Meteorology and soil temperature.

Any citizen of Nevada who is interested in agriculture in any of its departments, is invited to apply to the State for any information that he may desire concerning the theory and practice of any branch of agriculture. All such communications will receive due consideration, and as far as possible will be answered promptly.

Citizens of the State are invited to suggest to the station such lines of investigation as they most desire undertaken. All suggestions of this nature will receive attention at the hands of the station, and will be acted upon as far as the means at our command will permit.

The station desires for study and for museum purposes samples of plants, seeds, farm crops, sections of trees, minerals, soils, abnormally developed plants and animals, etc. For any of these we will be grateful.

All communications, specimens and express packages should be addressed Director Experiment Station, Reno, Nevada.

THE RIVERSIDE.

All the Comforts and Luxuries of a Home Provided.

W. R. Chamberlain, of the Riverside Hotel, has purchased in San Francisco an entire new set of silver ware for his table, knives, forks and all and when he gets his table set with it they will outrank anything of the kind ever seen in Reno.

He also has bought a tent 12 by 18 feet with 5 foot walls that he intends putting up on the elegant grounds and furnished with ice cream tables and folding cots for the accommodation of his guests, besides swinging hammocks. The Riverside is the only hotel in town where one can get the luxury and comforts of a home.

A WILD CROWD.

Two Cyprins and Their Male Companions Take the Town.

A couple of frail sisters and their male companions from Virginia, created a sensation on the streets this afternoon by hilarious conduct, wild driving and making themselves generally obnoxious. Justice Young deputized Mr. Cooper to arrest them, as a regular officer could not be found. Cooper finally pulled them into Hyman's stable when the team was taken from them, but after a solemn promise that he would drive right out and his away to the city of Sin on the hill they were allowed to go, but at last accounts they still were driving about town.

Some High Percentages.

The following table gives the general averages for the last school year of the class recently graduated from the Reno High School; also, the averages of their final examinations:

	Gen. Ave.	Avg. of Examinations
George E. Bates.	88.15	91.2
Charles A. Coffin.	88.10	91.2

Accidentally Killed.

The Modoc Independent of the 13th inst says: News reached Alturas last night that S. G. Rees, a former resident of this place, was killed at Lakeview day before yesterday. It seems that some workmen were engaged in raising a building and Mr. Rees was sitting on the porch of the same, when some of the timbers gave way and the roof of the porch fell in, with the result mentioned. It is also said that another man was injured, probably fatally.

Kansas' Wheat Crop.

Kansas will harvest the largest wheat crop, this season, that has been produced in that State for years. It is estimated that the yield will be fully thirty million bushels.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.

The river is falling.

There were six applicants for teachers certificates, two for first grade and four for second grade.

In view of a prospect of a short crop, the Modoc Independent says the price of flour has materially advanced.

The Reno Guards have accepted the invitation of the Storey county people to attend the Virginia City 4th of July celebration.

R. M. Daggett came down from Virginia last night en route below, but registered for one day at the Riverside.

The Independent says there will be a total failure of the raspberry crop in Modoc county, Cal., this year, the bushes having been winter-killed.

The Carson Appeal says if a man cannot catch a fish at Lake Tahoe, he might catch a School-marm, for they are plentiful, especially at Emerald Bay.

Leonard & Lindsey, the well known law firm, have added another large room to their already commodious office, they now occupy rooms in the Sunderland building.

Geo. Holesworth took a contract this morning to cover the new flooring mills of Beck & Co. with steel sides and roof. He represents an Ohio firm that manufactures it.

Attention is called to the new ad of S. J. Hodgkinson under "New To-day." Mr. Hodgkinson is a progressive man and keeps up with the times in every thing in his line. Give him a call and be convinced.

It would be well for those contemplating building to read the ordinance and find out if they are in the fire limit or not, and if they are to make calculations to build of brick and not wood for the Board intend to see that the ordinance is lived up to.

DIAMONDS.

Watches and Diamonds Found in Tea and Coffee.

The names of all persons finding diamonds, watches, etc., are added to this list daily. The Overland Tea Company have refitted the store formerly occupied by S. M. Jamison, and in order to introduce their goods, this company put for thirty days, souvenirs in every can of tea and coffee sold, such as solid gold, silver and nickel watches. Also genuine diamonds in solid gold settings; also money and many other articles of less value.

Every can contains a souvenir. The coffee, can and contents weigh about three pounds; tea, can and contents about one and one-half pounds. This expensive and novel way of advertising will be discontinued after thirty days, and these really choice goods will be sold strictly on their merits, but without the souvenir. Of course every purchaser must not expect to get a diamond or watch. This company claim that they have just as good a right to give away watches, diamonds or other jewelry and money, as their competitors have to give away glassware, chromes, etc. Get up a club. Those who get up a club order must always get a handsome present. Orders by mail promptly forwarded to all parts of the United States on receipt of cash or postoffice order. Terms: Single can, $1; six for $5; thirteen for $10, and twenty-seven for $20. Address, Overland Tea Company, Reno, Nevada.

Johnny's Mistake.

"I wish, mamma," said little Johnnie Fizzlepop, "that I lived in South Africa." "Why, my son?" "Why, the mammas down there don't wear slippers, you know." "Yes, my son; but you must also remember that the boys in South Africa don't wear pants, either." "That's so," said Johnnie; "is that queer I never thought anything about that."

Fear the Detectives.

The law forbidding the selling of cigarettes to small boys appears to be very freely violated in New York and Brooklyn. But the proprietors of cigar stores are beginning to be afraid of private detectives. It appears that very numerous, and it is believed that in time the traffic will be checked.

Treachorous Memories.

In order to prove to a court in Chicago that memory is a treacherous thing, a lawyer told ten different men of an accident, and when each came to tell it no two had the incidents alike, and not one of them told it as it had been told to him.

A Bad Substitute.

First Recorded Telegram.

Mrs. John Wethered, daughter of Philip E. Thomas, projector and first President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has hanging in the library of her country seat, just out of Baltimore, what is claimed as the first recorded telegram. It reads: "Message from Mrs. Dolly Madison, relict of President Madison. She sends her love to Mrs. Wethered."

Not Their Fault.

Miss Culture—What do you think of Henry George's single tax idea? Miss Gushingham—Well, I see no reason why he should not tax single men, but I don't think he ought to tax single women—it isn't our fault.

A LUCKY TRIAL.

The Good Fortune Which Followed. It affords me great pleasure to send to you this voluntary statement of my experience in testing the merits of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. For the past five years I have been troubled with an exceedingly sluggish liver, including loss of appetite and distress after eating, pains in the back and kidneys, and both around my neck and face. I tried many liver remedies, only getting temporary relief. I was recommended to try a bottle of "The California Remedy" Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla as a test, and while taking the first bottle I became convinced of its merits, for I feel it was working a change in me. I took five bottles, and during that time my troubles left me. Everything is working full and regular. In fact it has cleansed, purified and braced me up generally. I feel like another man. You are at liberty to use this as you see fit, or can refer whom you please to

This is the season of the year when the raw cold winds create sad havoc with the hands and complexion. poration, for order and decree of disincor-poration.

greeting:

and existing under and by virtue of the constitution and laws of the State of Nevada,

District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for Washoe county, State of Nevada, in which county said corporation has its office and principal place of business, a petition praying the decree of said court dissolving and disincor-porating said corporation, which petition is accompanied by the certificate of the proper officers of the corporation, setting forth that at a meeting of the stockholders of said corporation, duly held on the 30th day of March, 1889, for the purpose of considering the question of the disincorporation of said corporation, that it was decided by the vote of the majority of the stockholders, to dis-incorporate, dissolve and disincorporate the same; and whereas,

Has been duly set for the hearing and disposal of said petition, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 22d day of June, 1889,

Summons.
In the District Court of the State of Nevada,
in and for the County of Washoe.
THE STATE OF NEVADA SENDS TO A. Z. FRANKLIN greeting: You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendant by LENA

Court of the State of Nevada and for the County of Washoe, and answer the complaint therein within ten days after the service on you of this Summons (exclusive of the day of days if served out of said County, but within said District, and in all other cases forty against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought to recover the judgment and decree of this Court nary industry, all of which will more fully appear from the pleadings, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Reno, in said County, and to which you are especially referred.

And you are further notified, that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded.

A MORNING WALK.
Though we have said good-bye,
Clasped hands and parted ways, my dream
and I,
These still is beauty on the earth and glory in the sky.
The world has not grown old
With foolish hopes, nor commonplace nor cold.
Nor is there any taint on the happy harvest gold.
Spent was the night in sighing,
In tears and vain regrets, heartache and crying.
Lo! breaks the windy azure morn with clouds tumultuous flying!
Life is not all a cheat,
A sordid struggle 'tween and incomplete.
When the sun and shadowy fleet across the sillows of the wheat!
Whence upward pierces keen
The lark's shrill exultation o'er the sheen
Of the young barley's wavy fleece of silky, silvery green.
Didst think, oh, narrow heart!
That mighty Nature shared thy puny smart?
Face her serene, heart whole, heart free, that is the better part.
Are the high heavens bent,
A vault of snow and sapphire wonderment,
Merely to arch, dull egotist, thy dismal discontent?
Wouldst pour thy to the ear
Of the young morn the thoughts that make thee dream?
Vow the land's joyous splendor through the folly of a tear?
The boon thou hast not had--
'Tis a slight trivial thing to make thee sad When with the sunshine and the storm God's glorious world is glad.
'Tis guilt to weep for ill
When with the swallows by the poplars flit, Aslant they go, pied cloven gleams thro' leaf-age golden lit!
While breezy purples stain
The long low grassy reaches of the plain Where ashen pale the alders quake before the hurricane.
Ah! there are still delights
Hid in the multitude of common sights,
The dear and wonted pageant of the summer days and nights.
The word is not yet said
Of ultimate ending, we are quick, not dead, Though the dim years withhold from us one frail joy corrected.
Our life is all too brief,
The world too wide, too wonderful for grief, Too crowded with the loveliness of bird and beast and leaf.
So, though we said good-bye
With bitter futile tears, my dream and I-- Each slender blade of wayside grass is clothed with majesty!

A COMPETENT CLERK.
But He Had a Dangerous Weakness for Cipher Telegrams.
I had engaged a new clerk. He was, I confess, the best penman I had ever seen, and being thoroughly acquainted with the art of double-entry book-keeping, filled the position for which I had employed him with entire satisfaction to myself. Aside from his work, there was something about the young man I did not exactly like--a peculiar, reserved way with him that, during his stay with me, I never understood, and I suppose I might always have remained in ignorance concerning its meaning had not the circumstance I am about to relate thrown some light upon his true character.
One forenoon, about two weeks after the engagement of my new clerk, I had occasion, while he was absent, to go to his desk, and saw, lying on the floor just beneath it a half-sheet of foolscap paper, on which were inscribed, in my book-keeper's handwriting, the following characters, which appeared to constitute a key to some secret record or correspondence: 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 a b c d e f g h i j k l m n o p q r s t u v w x y z
On what slight incidents are great events often based! I carefully put the piece of paper into my pocket, where it lay for months forgotten by myself, and brought forth at last as the instrument whereby two great villains were brought to justice, and as the means by which I was saved the loss of a large sum of money.
One day after several weeks I was paid the sum of $2,000, which I placed within a drawer in my small office safe, intending it should remain there over night, and the next day I would put it on deposit.
Gannett (my new clerk) was present, and observed very observantly what I was doing--following my every motion with an eager, nervous, excited glance, which, although it attracted my attention at the time, did not impress me as a matter of much importance, and was soon out of my mind;
though afterward I had cause to remember it very distinctly.
"Gannett," said I, as I swung to the safe-door, locked it carefully and put the key in my pocket (by the way, I may as well state here that I was the only one who had a key)--"Gannett, you know, of course, about the money, and to insure its safety I wish you would do me a favor."
"I am ready to oblige at any moment-- the present none the less," said he.
"Well, then," said I, "I would like to have you sleep in my office all night, and guard against burglars. You can sleep on the couch and keep the fire burning, so you will be warm and comfortable. You may take my rug, and every thing will be all right. Of course I shall pay you extra for the trouble."
"It will be a happiness to do so," said Gannett, somewhat eagerly. I afterward thought, "I care not for extra pay."
"I am sorry to have to cause you so much trouble and inconvenience," said I, gratified at the readiness with which he acquiesced, "and I hope it will not often occur to me. By the way, Gannett," I added, putting on my overcoat, "I shall not be back at the office to-night, for I am going to town by the five o'clock train. You and Wilson can see to things while I am gone, though I shall probably return to-morrow. Good night."
"Good night, Mr. Parker. You can depend upon my faithfully carrying out your directions."
The unusual cordiality with which he spoke combined with the fact that he made use of my name for the first time in my remembrance, occasioned me some surprise;
however, I soon left him at the desk, and,
wrapping my overcoat closely around me, went out into the cold wintry air and wended my way homeward.
After partaking of a warm, hearty meal,
I proceeded to the station and took the five o'clock train for town, where I arrived two hours later.
In my younger days I had been employed in a telegraph office and had become a competent operator, though for various reasons I did not like the business, and, after having worked at it for a few years, resigned my position to engage in something more or genial to my taste. Among the many acquaintances I had formed at that time was that of a young fellow by the name of Taylor, who was also an operator, and, at the time of which I write, was employed by the telegraph company in their office, where, for old acquaintance sake, I called without delay, and found him seated by his instrument engaged in the perusal of the evening paper.
"Taylor," said I, advancing toward him,
"how are you?"
"Halloo, Parker, is that you?" he exclaimed, rising from his seat. "Give us your fin, old fellow, and say, how goes it?"
"First rate," I replied, shaking hands;

"you still keep at the old occupation, I see."
"Yes, and probably always shall. Here is the paper; sit down and be comfortable.
I've got to receive this message that's coming. No peace for the wicked, and certainly not for telegraph operators." I took the seat he offered, and, spreading the paper out before me, began to read--my friend in the meantime taking down the dispatch, and otherwise busying himself about the instrument, which had commenced clicking in a very lively and animated manner.
"It's from your place," he said, presently.
"Is it?" said I, folding the paper to get at the inside.
"It's in cipher, too," he added soon afterward.
"From my place, and in cipher?" I repeated, throwing aside the paper. "Who is it from?"
"Haven't come to that yet."
I had become strangely interested, I scarcely knew why, and waited impatiently for the complete transmission of the message.
The instrument went on clicking at a great rate, and presently Taylor began to spell aloud, so fast as it came over the wires, the name appended to the telegram.
"G-a-m-n-e-t-t. Gannett," said he.
"Gannett!" I exclaimed, starting up.
"Why, he's my clerk! Taylor, let me see that telegram!"
Although the proceeding were somewhat irregular--it not being usual for telegraph officials to allow third parties to become acquainted with the contents of other people's messages--my friend, under the present circumstances (which were considered as partial justification for the act), handed me the paper, on which he had transcribed the message, and glancing over it eagerly, I saw what followed:
"TO WILLIAM JACKSON, 119 Copples Street:
"10-4-22-16-10-4-7-24-9-14-3-8-2-24-21-5-9-18-21-10-4-10-9-14-17-16-18-8-14-23-5-16-23-8-7-31-6-10-18-6-6-10-7-26-7-23-23-7-11-7-0-16-7-7-14-11-18-10-4-10-1-16-17-7-4-9-16-18-20-6-6-8-18-16-10-7-21-15-16-14-10-10-16-7-17-17-18-16-18-18-11-8-6-6-10-10-26-7-24-11-21-18-9-4-16-18-8-10-4-10-23-16-
"GANNETT."
"Who is this Jackson--the man to whom the dispatch is addressed? Or don't you know?" I asked.
"He keeps a sort of blacksmith's shop, and makes tools," said Taylor. "I don't like his looks--he's a vinegar-visaged." I hardly know why it was, but the fact of my clerk's having sent a telegraph dispatch in cipher looked very suspicious to me, and I instinctively thought of the paper I had found under his desk, and which was still in my pocket.
"Taylor," said I, "I wish you would allow me to keep a copy of this dispatch. It may affect my interests more than you think for."
"Well, if you think it does, go ahead," said Taylor. "Only don't get me into hot water--that's all."
"I'll take care of that, Taylor," said I,
going to a desk and sitting down before it.
"Now leave me alone for a few minutes, and I'll see if I can solve this mystery." I hardly knew what I was doing, but the fact of my clerk's having sent a telegraph dispatch in cipher looked very suspicious to me, and I instinctively thought of the paper I had found under his desk, and which was still in my pocket.
In a perfect thrill of excitement I bade my friend a hasty good-bye, and telling him that I would be fully explained at some other time, ran back to the station and took the night train for home.
As we whirled onward in the darkness I revolved the whole matter over in my mind, and came to a decision as to what I should pursue--which will be better illustrated by the actual facts as they occurred.
Going directly to the post-office I communicated my discovery to the chief, who set a trap by means of which the burglars were caught on the following morning, and the accomplishment of their nefarious schemes.
The station was watched, and a stranger carrying in his hand a large bag was observed to alight from the half-past eleven train, and, with a sly, furtive look, to slip to my office, on the door of which he gave a peculiar knock, and was at once admitted by Gannett.
The officers waited on the outside a sufficient length of time for them to get fairly at work, and then, breaking into the office, found one man engaged in blowing powder into the keyhole of the safe, and the other, my clerk, looking over the burglar's tools.
Both Gannett and his bosom friend Jackson were generously provided by the benevolent authorities with an elegant stone mason across the seas; and so highly deligated were they with the many charms that this magnificent retreat afforded, that they were easily prevailed upon to occupy for the period of ten years apartments of the cozy dimensions of seven by nine feet--the windows of which were ornamented by iron bars, placed lengthwise, in fulfillment of the directions of an ingenious architect, who had an eye to beauty and wished every thing belonging to the country to present as snug and safe an appearance as possible.

A Disagreeable Bed-Fellow.
One night the son of Colonel Dodge, while sleeping in camp upon the ground next to his father, and lying on his stomach, was awakened by a disagreeable cold tremor running through him. He called to his father and said: "Father, there is something the matter with me. I think I have got chill. I have a cold sensation in the small a of my back, very strange, unlike anything I ever felt before, and I am frightened." To this, the father, suspecting the truth, replied: "Lie perfectly still," then jumped from his own place of repose, stood a few feet away from the boy with his pistol in his hand, and said to him: "When I count three, I want you to jump!" The boy replied: "All right." The Colonel then counted three, and Frederick jumped to his feet, and, looking at his father, he saw the rattlesnake which had coiled there for warmth, and the Colonel shot the serpent before he could strike the boy.

Snore Like a Sea-Lion.
A correspondent of the Lancet makes a humorous appeal to the medical profession to tell him what he is to do with a lady patient on whom he has been bestowing fruitless care and attention for the last twenty years. This lady is an inveterate and incurable snorer. Her husband has confided to the medical profession the snoring is "much worse lately," and that, whereas his helpmeet was wont to let him off with only three or four hours of torture, she now "snore all night, and can be heard all over the house." Moreover, she frequently wakes herself with the noise five or six times in one night, and it is rare that her husband can get to sleep till three or four o'clock. Whether she lies high or low makes no difference--she can sleep and snore at any time in a few minutes, and to aggravate the case she has lately taken to yawning a great deal.

How Gail Hamilton Writes.
Gail Hamilton, whose real name is Miss Mary A. Dodge, prepares her manuscript for the press on odd scraps of paper with a stub pen. One of her recent articles, which I saw before it went to the printer, was entirely written on the inside blank pages of old envelopes which she had cut open and saved. Friends who send her letters of which one sheet is left clean furnish her with a large amount of her writing material. Miss Dodge's handwriting is a bold, round, masculine type, and no one would suspect that it was produced by a woman.
